

Field Tour of Forestry Practices

Join representatives from the Clemson Extension FNR team and the SC Forestry Commission for a field tour of the forest management practices implemented in the life cycle of a pine forest, from planting to forest maturity.

Tour stops will include:

- a recently harvested stand
- a recently site-prepared and planted stand
- stands ready to be thinned
- thinned and prescribed burned stands

Throughout the tour, participants will also learn how these forestry practices protect and enhance non-timber resources. Please dress for a morning in the woods. Lunch will be provided after the tour, with time for discussion.
